Cheetah Learning Project Management Online Training Scholarship Program for Primary and Secondary School Teachers

Through the generous support of Cheetah Learning, the PMI Educational Foundation (PMIEF), a nonprofit charitable organization, established a project management training scholarship program to assist qualified primary and secondary school teachers in learning the fundamentals of project management through Cheetah Learning's PM Fundamentals Online Certificate Program.

The PMIEF is pleased that you are interested in receiving project management training. The learning from this training will enable you to utilize project management skills in enhancing your effectiveness and efficiency in the execution of your profession and better equip you to implement Project Learning teaching methodology in your schools and/or classrooms as a means of enhancing the education of students in 21st century skills.

There is no cost to educators for this online training program, valued at $3,250, and which is provided through Cheetah Learning to qualified primary and secondary school teachers. The program includes preparing you for and the taking of the PMI Certified Associate in Project Management (CAPM®) professional credential examination, while receiving continuing education units through an International Association of Continuing Education and Training (IACET) Certified provider.

There are a limited number of training scholarships available each quarter. Scholarships will be awarded on a first come first serve basis to those applicants who meet the criteria and agree to complete the program. All applicants must have access to their own computer and the internet. To expedite the processing of your application, please assist us by carefully reading the instructions below:
