The home page is your main navigation dashboard, where you will find all your tools, activities, and progress. You can navigate to any page using the menu on the left and seek support or take a break with the menu on the top right.

Learning Plan

The Learning Plan contains all your lessons, flashcards, practice questions, and practice exams. All lessons are divided into tasks and indicate the knowledge points you'll receive upon completion. As you complete each lesson, you will make progress in your learning plan, accomplish knowledge goals, and rack up statistics on your percentile ranking and average score. Your Learning Plan is designed around your time frame and exam date.

Lessons

The lessons and videos found in your Lesson tab cover the three domains and fundamental concepts of the new PMP exam. You will know what lesson to focus on by following the Learning Plan designed around your exam date and time frame. Expand each topic to see the topics, subtopics, and categories covered. Lessons, articles, and case studies are not necessarily linked to the practice questions in each section.

Flashcards

The two-sided digital flashcards contain key PMP terms on one side and their definitions and explanations on the other side. They should be used as a memory aid to ensure you can recall certain concepts on the exam. Be sure to select your preferred language before using flashcards.

How should the project manager proceed?

- A. Review the positives and negatives of releasing the product in its current format and bring this analysis to the project sponsor to decide.
- B. Work with the stakeholder and the product owner to try and find alignment but support the product owner as they are ultimately responsible for the product.
- C. Schedule a meeting with all stakeholders and the product owner to review the project's Pareto Chart.
- D. Empower the project team to decide how to proceed as the product's development is the project team's responsibility.

In which quadrant of the matrix are they located?

- A. Low Influence / Low Commitment
- B. Low Influence / High Commitment
- C. High Influence / Low Commitment
- D. High Influence / High Commitment

As you complete activities in PMI Study Hall™, you will achieve milestones that will unlock Question of the Day emails. You will receive these daily, for up to three months, to review and brush up on your PMP knowledge.

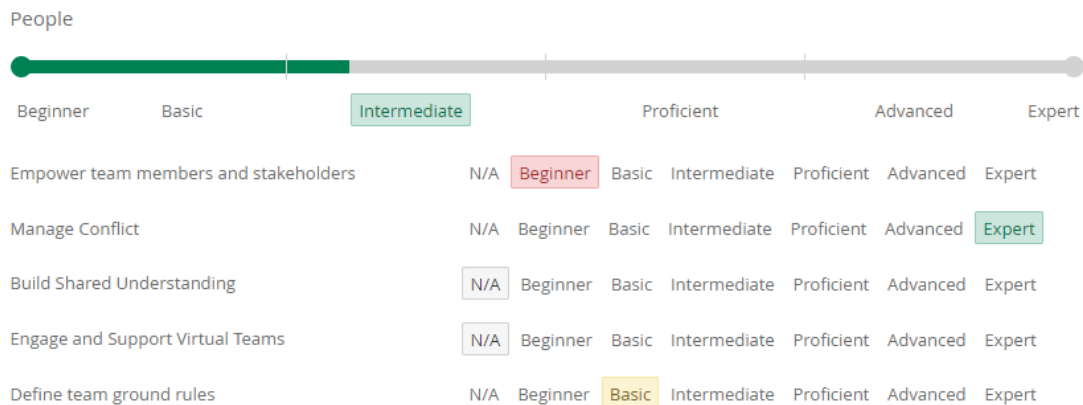

Score Reports

Situational knowledge and practical application are driving factors behind content development and curation. Study Hall content is not intended to replace traditional study methods but to enrich the overall body of knowledge and understanding of the risk management profession.

Study Hall content is designed to offer conceptual learning and professional insight in a way that is engaging, timely, and accurate. Content is intended to synthesize and reinforce exam concepts and is designed to emphasize practical applications and illustrate them with specifics, not to teach them from scratch.
