

Introduction

PMI members and credential holders, as a condition of their status, agree to abide by the PMI Code of Ethics and Professional Conduct. The Code provides an overall standard of behavior and includes specific standards to guide project managers in their professional relationships.

Based on the PMI Code of Ethics and Professional Conduct, the Ethics Self-Assessment tool is intended for personal use and assist the user in thinking about his or her own ethics-related leadership and actions. It should not be returned to PMI, nor should it be used as a tool for evaluating the ethical behavior of others.

A user can choose to begin assessing her or his ethical behaviors at any time. The initial assessment will help any practitioner understand the current state of their personal ethics, which then provides the information necessary to build a stronger personal ethics for the future. Ongoing assessments and re-evaluations will help the user to commit to sustaining ongoing and continuous ethics improvement. This ethics assessment tool is an excellent way to measure the overall health of one's individual ethics and plan for improvements.

The Ethics Self-Assessment can help you identify:

- Areas in which you are on strong ethical ground
- Areas that you may wish to examine, including the basis for your responses;
- Opportunities for further reflection.

Instructions for the Use of the Ethics Self-Assessment Tool

We hope you find this tool thought-provoking and useful in your reflection on applying the PMI Code of Ethics and Professional Conduct to your everyday activities. You are to be commended for taking time out of your busy schedule to complete this assessment. There is no pressure or time limit for completing this assessment, so please consider your answers thoughtfully and carefully and make comments and notes as you progress.

If you uncover “red flags” where your responses are not compatible with the PMI Code of Ethics and Professional Conduct, you should use it as an opportunity to enhance your ethical practice and leadership by developing a specific action plan. You can use the template provided with the self-assessment or use one of your own creation.

Consider PMI as a resource when you and your management team are confronted with difficult ethical dilemmas. At www.pmi.org/ethics, you can access a diverse set of practical resources that will help you understand how to integrate ethics into your own life, as well as in communities and organizations that you practice your profession in.

The Ethics Self-Assessment

The Ethics Self-Assessment tool consists of 50 statements about ethical and professional conduct. This tool does not have a scoring mechanism, as we do not believe that ethical behavior can or should be quantified.

Step One: Check only one answer for each of the statements. The statements have been grouped into areas of impact for ease in reflection.

Step Two: Once all the statements have been answered, take time, review the responses, and make note of statements answered with “usually,” “occasionally,” and, “almost never”. Identify which of the answers may raise concerns (“red flags”); reflect, and decide on the ones to address.

Step Three: Using the development plan provided, identify appropriate next actions for yourself to develop and refine your ethical behaviors.

Some statements may not apply to you and it is perfectly acceptable to skip them after considering their potential extended implication in your own life and/or organization. Neither is the list exhaustive; if you have other personal considerations not explicitly called forward in the assessment tool, make note of them for reflection and inclusion in your development plan, as appropriate.

Once you have completed the assessment questionnaire, go back and examine those items not marked as "Always". Using the development plan template on the next page (or one of your own creation), begin establishing mechanisms and timelines for self-improvement to increase your ethical stance and behavior.

Personal Ethics Development Plan

Using your responses to the self-assessment questionnaire above, work to identify and address areas of opportunity for improvement. Consider those statements answered with "almost never" or "occasionally" and even when the answer was "usually".

Step 1: Transfer those statements that you want to work on into the first column

Step 2: Transfer the respective current frequency into the second column

Step 3: Define a goal frequency in the third column

Step 4: Reflect about the actions to take, and establish realistic timeframes.

Personal Ethics Development Plan
Ethical behavior I want to work on	Current frequency	Goal frequency	Action Steps	Timeframe
I.e. "03. I strive to be a role model for ethical behavior"	Occasionally	Monthly	Discuss the PMI Code of Ethics with a peer or with a PMI chapter colleague	Within 6 month

Tips and recommendations:

- Establish realistic targets, continue to be motivated!
- Choose 1-3 activities to work on at a time. Focus, and establish priorities.
- Review the plan periodically and monitor your progress.
