

PROJECT MANAGEMENT JOURNAL®

The Editors of Project Management Journal® and the Project Management Institute are pleased to announce

Bent Flyvbjerg

is the recipient of the prestigious

Project Management Journal®
2023 Most Cited Paper of the Last 10 Years Award

for his exceptional contribution

“What You Should Know About Megaprojects and Why: An Overview”

This distinguished award acknowledges and celebrates an academic paper published within the last decade that has garnered the highest number of citations, signifying its profound impact on the research community and significance in shaping the field of project management.

This paper’s impressive influence and widespread recognition are a testament to the depth of its insights, rigorous research, and the profound value it brings our readers and the academic community. You may find this exemplary work in Project Management Journal®, Volume 45, Issue 2.

This and all other award-winning papers are available through open access on the journal’s home page at <https://journals.sagepub.com/home/pmx>.