

Successful Agile Transformations Target People, Processes, and Tools Simultaneously

Successful organizational improvement targets three areas simultaneously – People (individuals and interactions); process, and tools. The majority of your effort, typically 80-85%, will be training and coaching people in the agile mindset and culture. Just as important is to evolve your existing process and tooling infrastructure, each of which is 5-10% of your improvement effort.